HONGKONG, TUESDAY, JUNE 24, 1890.

In the Legislative Council yesterday there was a discussion on both sides to avoid the discussion of principles in considering the Bill for the protection of women and girls. The whole subject has been thrashed out in England. The 'anti-suffrage' and the 'pro-suffrage' had their pitched battle. The latter won a great and decisive victory—a victory so complete that the 'anti-suffrage' in England seem to have no desire to renew the fight. We in Hongkong are but an offshoot of England, and are completely under the control of the English Parliament. The mother-country having taken a decisive stand on the question of the C. D. Act, she commands all her progeny who are minors or infants under her direct tutelage—and we in Hongkong for well or we are in that position—to unhesitatingly and without question follow her example. Such being the instructions from Home, it is but natural that both the Attorney General (as the spokesman of the local Government), who are doing what they are told, and Messrs Ryrie and Ho Kai, the chief protectors against the innovation, should avoid, as likely to be barren of result, the discussion of the great moral and sanitary principles involved in the examination—compulsory or voluntary, of women who openly lead a life of shame. Even
